It all started in the little town of stony creek where everything was quiet and peaceful everyone got along but that would all change. Stony creek had a history of people going missing or having a hunting incident from which they did not return. There were never any reports of deaths in the town. But there were rumors of suck people not being heard from again. There was always one family that had lived there ever sense they made a home stead there.

The town of Stony creek was located in what many consider the last frontier little power and no internet just power and phones these were the thing that people used in the less modern age but are still a modern appliance used everyday life. The town had no mayor and has nothing but three families that been their ever since they came there. Little did the public know that there had been a secret war happening. The war was going on for so long they had forget why it had even started. One day one family decided to kidnap the youngest member at each family. One from the matt family and one from the Kilpatrick family.

The family that has done the kidnaping is the family of the Olivero's an Italian family and the senores are the oldest out of the three families. And they are like the old mofia the whole you dare lie to me i kill you type. As these two kids named Logan and Chris were knocked out and dragged away to a secret location to be "questioned" they know that they would not returned in one peace they would probity never seen again. As the Kilpatrick's family soon relized that Logan was no longer with them it soon clicked into their heads that the Matt's had taken Logan but it was not them. At the same time the Matt's had soon realized that Chris was missing that they would soon accuse the Kilpatrick of doing it.

They decided to meat in neutral ground where no fights would take place. They would send one member of each family. The Kilpatrick's would send Chase and the Matt's would send James. They met at the town square. Chase began with "where is Logan!!!!" too soon that James would reply "where is Chris!!!!" to little extent they would go on and on for three hours going back and forth accusing the other that they had taken the family member. Meanwhile the Oliver's were busy preparing the two kids waiting for them to wake up.

As the two boys began to wake they would soon find themselves upside down with their feet being hung up by chains and blood rushing to their heads. Logan started with "where are we?" as Chris was about to speak the door at the end of the room opened a man walked in with many sharp knives and other interments that look as if to be hooks used in fishing tuna. He just stood there getting his tools ready. As Chris began with “who are you” to which the man had no reply. He asked again but even louder than the last time still no reply. Then Logan tried still with no success; just then the door opened and then they know that there were not going home anytime soon. A man walked in they know who it was rate away they knew that there was not going to be any return. The man who had just walked in was only known by one name Tyson this man was a man who you did not want to meet on a daily basis because you would not be there the next day.

While this was all going on the two families were still going at each other saying that they had taken there kid but this was not true. The two families now clued in the neither family had the kid and in fact the Olivero’s had both their kids. They now knew that the only way to get them back was to work together but this would never work; would it? They said “let’s give it a try and get our kids back.”

As they started to devise a plan the two kids were still hanging upside down. As Tyson started to grab his knives and bring them toward the two kids he started asking questions about what the Matt’s and the Kilpatrick’s plans were to get rid of each other. Of course they knew nothing about any plans they were the youngest they were never invited to any meetings they were the farm workers they tended to the fields and crops. As Tyson grabbed his knife the sound of gun fire went off outside.

The Matts and the Kilpatrick’s were outside putting bullet holes into the house of the Olivero’s; then what sounded like a grenade went off and they could hear the sound of breaking glass and wood everywhere. Just then the door opened and they saw Chase and James come barging in Tyson would leap at them with his sharp knife attempting to kill them but with little success. They had put bullet holes in him before he got the chance to do a thing. As chase said “let’s get you boys home” they cut their chains and got them safely out of Olivero’s territory. From that day forward the war between the three families were no more. But everyone was still wondering what started the feud? That can only be discovered by you the reader; this is the story of a generation but each generation but each generation is to decide its own start and how they go to change the world for them. Now you tell me how this all started? And as to why everyone seems to forget why they keep fitting this endless war. This is where I end and you begin; so create a story that you will enjoy and don’t be defined about but how it effect you.
